Honoring Our Veterans

Fighting For The Future

Abby Jacob

Those who gave all they had today
For a better tomorrow

Those who protected far away
In search of independence

Those who tirelessly defend,without a strand of play
Whenever given the chance to lend a helping hand

Their resilience rose in the air
Like smoke from a bonfire

Their courage left people without despair
As they healed the empty space in our country's heart

Their selflessness is beyond compare
While sacrificing their lives for the sake of everything at risk

Like a book without meaning, or an eagle without wings
We are not America without our veterans
